Viewshed Maintenance Begins!

Friends of Historic Huntley (FOHH) has been a vocal advocate for maintaining the expansive, open vista of Historic Huntley's southern-facing viewshed, testifying at public hearings against area development that would adversely impact the view. A major impact has been the growth of tall trees in Huntley's immediate foreground that now impede the panoramic view below the site.

For several years FOHH has worked to raise funds to restore and maintain the viewshed through selective tree removal. Thanks to all who have supported these efforts, FOHH was able to launch Phase One of its viewshed maintenance project. Both Woodlawn Faith United Methodist Church and the Huntley Meadows Homeowners Association gave permission to remove the trees. On March 23, Jim Nelson's Woodlawn Tree Service arrived on site with heavy equipment, vehicles, and a crew ready to remove five trees. A sixth tree, an old cedar, was spared for now due to "historic" age, beauty, and a limited budget.

See photographs of "before" and "after" on page 3.

The tree removals not only opened up the southward views, but also greatly improved Historic Huntley's visibility to northbound travelers on Harrison Lane. ❖

Tenant House and Privy Structures Reevaluated

At the invitation of FOHH, and with critical support from Fairfax County Park Authority (FCPA) staff, Dr. Dennis Pogue, an associate research professor with the University of Maryland's School of Architecture, Planning, and Preservation, came to visit Historic Huntley on April 29 and August 16.

When the tenant house was recently renovated, internal features were discovered indicating that it originally was a duplex. This suggested the possibility of housing for the enslaved. As co-founder of the Virginia Slave Housing (VSH) Surveyed Buildings Database hosted by the University of Maryland, Dr. Pogue was asked to evaluate this possibility. The VSH organizes information on the character of the domestic architecture of slavery in Virginia. <https://arch.umd.edu/research-creative-practice/special-projects/virginia-slave-housing/research/building-inventory>

Based on his site visits, he believes that the structure was a slave quarters. He also offered the possibility that the two end-rooms of the privy, long interpreted as storage rooms, were built as smokehouses. ❖

President's Column

by Todi Carnes

FOHH has historically directed its energies towards hosting spring and fall events designed to draw substantial numbers of the general public to Historic Huntley. These events began before Huntley was restored, when the site was closed to the public except for FOHH's twice-a-year open houses.

This last year, of course, has not been a typical year. Certainly, it has not been a year for bringing people together in person. As a result, we postponed the previously planned Plein Air spring event until 2022. As for a fall event, since the property now is routinely open to the public, FOHH had cancelled the long-running open house tradition even before the pandemic, after having experimented with several different event formats.

With no fall event to plan for and the spring event on hiatus due to the pandemic, FOHH has directed its energies this year to drawing a more targeted visitor to Huntley: local experts and officials uniquely qualified to assist with the site's preservation, maintenance, and/or interpretation.

Accordingly, in this newsletter you will see accounts of visitors from the University of Maryland, George Washington's Mount Vernon, and the Lee District supervisor's office—Supervisor Lusk himself! Though these visits may involve small numbers of people, we believe their contributions will be large. We eagerly look forward to welcoming the general public back to Historic Huntley at next year's Plein Air event. In the meantime, we hope to continue sponsoring smaller, specialized visits. ❖

Newsletter Distribution Goes Digital

Due to the pandemic, the last edition of FOHH's newsletter, Huntley Headlines was distributed solely by email. This edition also is digital-only, as will likely be the case for future newsletters. Current and past issues of Huntley Headlines can be found on <http://historichuntley.org>. ❖

Supervisor Lusk Visits

At FOHH's invitation, Lee District Supervisor Rodney Lusk visited Historic Huntley for the first time on July 7. He enjoyed a tea service prepared by FOHH Board Member Patty Young and received a site overview presentation from FCPA Historical Interpreter Cheryl Repetti. He visited a second time in mid-August to learn more. We hope to welcome him to Huntley often! Cultural Landscape Committee Established

Last spring FOHH established a Lawncare Research Committee. Since Historic Huntley's landscape includes terraces, a carriageway, and farm road, all of which are as historically significant as the villa and outbuildings, the committee has since been renamed the Cultural Landscape Committee (CLC).

This past spring, the CLC invited Director of Horticulture Dean Norton and Historic Garden and Landscape Manager Leslie Bird, both of George Washington's Mount Vernon, to Huntley. Their visit focused on an examination of the terraces. Committee members wanted to better understand their current condition and learn tips on how best to heal bare patches, remove and deter damaging invasive plants, and deal with burrowing woodchucks.

Until recently, the terraces have been overgrown and unmanaged during most of the year due to the challenge of maintaining them without the use of damaging, heavy equipment. This summer, FCPA contracted for monthly string trimming of the terraces.

The committee is actively recruiting people to help preserve the terraces and give them a more managed look. If you are interested in participating in this hands-on volunteer project, contact Carolyn Gamble at carolynjgamble@hotmail.com. ❖

Summer Intern

Originally from Massachusetts and New Hampshire, Colette Combs is a rising junior at American University. This summer she has been assisting with summer camps at Historic Huntley. Colette has particularly enjoyed the mystery spy camp she helped design.

In addition, she has conducted historical research on the surrounding Fairfax area. Colette's passion to shine a light on previously ignored voices and stories in history has led to a fascination with LGBTQ+ history. Researching such a hidden community has proven to be a difficult but rewarding learning experience and a labor of love. ❖

Book and CD Sales

FOHH's sales of used books and CDs at the Huntley Meadows Park Visitor Center benefit Historic Huntley. Books focus on historic homes and architecture, and local and regional history. CD stock focuses on classical music and historical narratives. Most books are $2 or $3; CDs are $3, two for $5, or $2 each for three or more. To donate books or CDs, contact Todi Carnes at todicarnes@verizon.net. ❖
